Sink into slippers

Lady guests of Lexus at the Derby and the Oaks will receive a pair of slippers for weary feet. No ordinary slippers, these are the inspiration of Domenica Puntoriero and daughter MaryAnne of My Sweet Feet. These slippers are so classy that MaryAnne received a call from the wardrobe department of Desperate Housewives seeking slippers for uptight housewife Bree (Marcia Cross).

Lady Lunchalot

Two great lunches this week: the first, Shared Tables and Restaurant and Catering Victoria's "Bring a Pot for Koto" lunch in the Lumina Room at the Grand Hyatt for the Koto cooking school in Vietnam. Jimmy Pham founded the school, which takes children off the streets and teaches them how to cook. Melbourne foodie Dur-e Dara encouraged guests to bring along a piece of kitchen equipment for the program. The second lunch at Pearl saw Dan Murphy's Tony Leon and Pierre Naigeon launch Clos Pierre 2005, the French winemaker's second Australian vintage. Chef Geoff Lindsay's (above, right, with Michael Lambie) entree of seared yellowfin tuna went beautifully with the chardy and we sampled the pinot noir with a main course of quail and shiitake dumplings with Thai sticky rice sausage.

Lest he forget

Girls, I know it's a perennial problem (husbands who forget anniversaries and birthdays), but this husband takes the cake. He forgot their wedding anniversary yet again, even though he'd been reminded, so she decided not to remind him of her birthday. By some fluke he remembered the birthday, then remembered the
